A message from the BDA Northern Ireland President

Reflection and connections in 2023

The emergence of long days and occasional sunshine is a reminder that we are now halfway through the year, therefore it's now time to reflect and plan our connections for the remainder of the year.

I am delighted with the attendance at our face-to-face educational meetings so far this year, it is great to see so many colleagues taking the opportunity to re-connect with each other. The sun appeared and shone brightly for both the BDA Golf Captains Day and the Hillsborough Castle Ramble this year; both events were extremely well attended and enjoyed by all.

Looking forward to the Autumn programme, you will see that we have a range of speakers from differing parts of the profession delivering something for everyone. Our lectures continue at The Malone Hotel, however in change to the original programme the October lecture will be held at The Hilton Hotel, Templepatrick and sees us welcoming Trevor Burke back to Northern Ireland in our centenary year.

Our main social event is just around the corner. BDA NI Branch will be celebrating its centenary with a 100 Year Gala Ball in Belfast City Hall on Saturday 7th October 2023. This event is attracting a lot of interest from right across the profession. Bookings are now open for this not-to-be-missed event. Why not make connections with practice colleagues or arrange reunions with university classmates and book now to ensure we light up the City Hall, BDA Blue.

The first half of this year has gone so fast and at times it seems that time can control us. I would encourage you to take some time to plan how you will step away from the coal face and connect with friends and colleagues away from the hustle and bustle of your surgeries.

I would like to re-iterate our thanks to our sponsors who, without their support our branch would not be so active. We have forged highly valuable relationships with our sponsors which bring benefit to all. You will have many opportunities to meet with our sponsors at events throughout the year and I would encourage you to continue to do so.

Aim:

Fulfilling your potential and that of your team, in implant dentistry.

Learning objectives:

- Discuss expectations regarding implant therapy and management in primary care.
- Learn how to appropriately discuss, assess and refer patients for implant therapy.
- Understand how to introduce or progress implant therapy within your practice.
- Explore the opportunities for you and your team to progress your careers and practice in implant therapy.

Chris is based in Northern Ireland, having qualified from QUB in 2008, went on to training in hospital dentistry for 3 years and subsequently worked in primary care oral surgery referral practice for 9 years.

In 2019 he completed a Masters Degree in Dental Specialties - Implantology at University of Manchester, passing with distinction, and is in his final year of a Masters Degree in Clinical Education at QUB evaluating barriers to postgraduate education in primary care dentistry.

Chris has established two private practices, most recently achieving Practice of the Year 2022. Chris' work and passion centres around ethics and team-based approach to healthcare, and the surgical dentistry/implantology interface. He has lectured on postgraduate programmes, and is ardent in encouraging a new generation of young dentists to be confident and progressive.

Conversations that Convert

Ashley Latter

Dental Practice Management

Aim:

How to discuss your treatment plans ethically, so that you can finally deliver the dentistry that you love to do & your patients want.

Learning objectives:

- Build instant rapport with all types of patients.
- Discover the two secrets on how to build instant rapport with your patients and get them to like you instantly.
- Discover the communication mistakes made by dentists every day.
- Become a much more effective listener. Learn to listen to understand rather than listen to respond.
- Understand what the 8 proven steps of the Ethical Sales Approach, so that more patients say yes to your private treatment plan.

In 1997, two dentists took part in Ashley's Two Day Ethical Sales & Communication Programme in Manchester, and from those two dentists, over 25,500 delegates, which include Dentists, Orthodontists, Treatment-Coordinators, Specialists and other team members have now taken this Programme in 16 countries world-wide. Ashley has a unique process which includes sharing his proven strategies and coaching his delegates in a very fun and positive way. This allows the delegates to develop new skills, new behaviours and increased levels of self-confidence. This process allows for improved performance in the practice and improved results.
